How To Guide: Accepting a Denison Scholar Loan

Students interested in borrowing a Denison Scholar Loan must complete the required loan application, self-certification, and promissory note before the loan can be disbursed into their student account.

To confirm whether you have outstanding requirements, check your My Financial Aid Portal (see the images below).

In addition to accepting your Denison Scholar Loan, you must complete the following requirements:

- Loan Application: Provided by the Office of Financial Aid upon request.
- Promissory Note: This is your agreement to repay your loan.
- Loan Self-Certification: Your certification of the cost of attendance, total financial aid excluding the Denison Scholar Loan, and remaining unmet need. Your unmet need is (Cost of Attendance – Financial Aid).

The Office of Financial Aid will email you when your loan information has been sent to our loan servicer, University Accounting Services (UAS). After receiving this notification, please allow 5–7 business days for UAS Connect to email you a link and instructions for completing the required institutional loan documents, including the loan certification and promissory note. You will also be provided the disclosure statements, what illustrates the terms of your loan repayment and estimated monthly payment amounts.

These requirements must be completed each time you accept a Denison Scholar Loan. You must also complete them again if the amount of a previously accepted Denison Scholar loan is increased.
